

(1) □ □ Naoun Kerta Kaader Kuray

Satta and Balwand were two Musalman cousins who were engaged by Guru Nanak Sahib as His musicians after the death of Bhai Mardana Ji in 1534. Both were very young at the time. They were very good musicians and served the first four Guru Sahiban well. As we have discussed under “Shabads of Historical Significance” when the Fifth Master Guru Arjun Sahib ascended the throne of Guruship in 1581, His elder brother, Pirthi Chand, put a strong opposition, and declared himself the Guru with the connivance of most of the Masands (preachers appointed by Guru Sahiban). Even though the Sikhs close to Amritsar knew the fact that Sri Arjun Dev Ji was the real Guru, but Sikhs from far away areas did not know the truth, so they could easily be misled by the Masands who would take them to Pirthi Chand’s camp and thus would collect all the rich offerings.

Guru Arjun Sahib did not lodge any complaint and continued to enlighten the masses and serve langar (free meal to everybody) as had been the practice from the time of Guru Nanak Dev Ji. Pirthi Chand was so greedy that despite receiving all the offerings by immoral means, he would not serve any meals even to the Sikhs who had come from faraway places, and would send them to Guru Arjun Sahib for meals. As a consequence of no significant offerings but having to provide meals to all the Sikhs, Guru Arjun Sahib’s economic situation was very bad. This situation continued for about a year before all the Sikhs realized that Pirthi Chand had no Divine Knowledge to impart spiritual guidance to the Sikhs and that Guru Arjun Dev Ji was the real Guru. So, gradually they began to visit Guru Arjun Dev Ji for spiritual guidance and took their offerings to Him.

During this period, Pirthi Chand put pressure on Satta and Balwand to join his camp so that they could keep the Sikhs visiting Pithi Chand with their gifted musical abilities. For some time the cousins resisted the pressure because of their long-time loyalty with the throne of Guruship, and continued to serve Guru Arjun Sahib until a tough situation arose. Satta fixed the marriage of his daughter (going by his age, it seems it must have been his granddaughter rather than his daughter, but it does not affect the outcome) and asked Guru Sahib for monetary help. Guru Sahib explained His economic situation to Satta, but still promised as much help as was possible. However, the monies Satta received from Guru Sahib fell much shorter than his big expectation and he found an excuse to quit serving Guru Sahib and join Pirthi Chand's camp where he expected much bigger income because most of the Sikhs from outlying areas were still going to Pirthi Chand's camp. Satta and Balwand were highly conceited of their abilities as popular musicians and they were sure that the Sikhs would continue to go to Pirthi Chand if they joined his camp. Not only that, they had this strong belief that the popularity of the Guru depended upon their performance as musicians. So, they wasted no time and moved to Pirthi Chand's camp where they began to make more money.

Guru Arjun Sahib was not impressed with the unreasonable and unwarranted step taken by the Cousins, and because of His generosity, He sent a few Sikhs to persuade them to come back. This kind gesture on the part of Guru Sahib was misinterpreted by the musicians and they concluded that Guru Arjun could not function without them. This thought inflated their ego and they flatly refused to return. Guru Sahib was not discouraged by their expected response, and to give one more try, He sent Baba Buddha Ji and Bhai Gurdas Ji - who were highly respected among all the Sikhs - to win the musicians back, but, the conceited bards stuck to their guns and did not agree to return. Finally, the lion-hearted and forgiving Guru went Himself to ask them to come back, but Guru Arjun Sahib could not bear what he heard in response to His kind gesture. Not only the highly conceited musicians did not agree to go back, they even said that they had the ability to make anyone the Guru if they chose to do so; they went even further and said that even Guru Nanak Sahib was the Guru because Mardana Ji – who belonged to their clan of bards- had made him so by his musical ability. Wheਨਾਉ ਕਰਤਾ ਕਾਦਰੁ ਕਰੇ ਕਾਉ ਬੋਲੁ ਹੋਵੈ ਜੋਖੀਵੈ॥ ਦੇ ਗੁਨਾ ਸਤਿ ਭੈਣ ਭਰਾਵ ਹੈ ਪਾਰੰਗਤਿ ਦਾਨੁ ਪੜੀਵੈ॥ ਨਾਨਕ ਰਾਜੁ ਚਲਾਇਆ ਸਚੁ ਕੋਟੁ ਸਤਾਈ ਨੀਵੈ॥ ਲਹਣਿ ਧਰਇਨੁ ਛਤੁ ਸਰਿ ਕਰਿ ਸਫਿਤੀ ਅੰਮ੍ਰਿਤੁ ਪੀਵੈ॥ ਮਤਿ ਗੁਰ ਆਤਮ ਦੇਵ ਦੀ ਖੜਗਿ ਜੋਗਿ ਪਰਾਕੁਇ ਜੀਅ ਹੈ॥ ਗੁਰਿ ਚੇਲੇ ਰਹਰਿਸਾ ਕੀਏ ਨਾਨਕ ਸਲਾਮਤਿ ਥੀਵੈ॥ ਸਹਾ ਰਿਕਾ ਦਿਤਿ ਸੁ ਜੀਵੈ॥ n Guru Arjun Sahib heard such blasphemous remarks about His God-like Guru, Nanak Dev Ji, He could not bear such derogatory remarks and He felt spiritually so wounded that He left immediately, and announced that from now on, no one would go to such conceited people asking them to come back. Guru Sahib said that He could handle such low remarks for Himself, but not for the esteemed Guru Nanak Patshah who is a manifestation of God and who is the world - Guru. Guru Arjun Sahib was so hurt that He further declared that if someone pleads on their behalf, He would blacken his face. Guru Arjun Sahib devised a new musical instrument, Saroda, Himself, and began to sing holy Shabads in His melodious voice. The congregations were so mesmerized with Guru Sahib's Divine voice that nobody missed Satta and Balwand even for a second.

As Waheguru had it, the things began to change very quickly. All the Sikhs had come to know the reality, and they would go to Guru Arjun Sahib's Divinity School, and almost nobody went to Pirthi Chand. Soon, Pirthi Chand was forced to discontinue his purported business of Guruship, and as a result, the musician- Cousins were out of work with no income at all. When they began to starve, they went from one Sikh to another asking for their help to get forgiveness from Guru Arjun Sahib, but nobody would listen to them. Finally, they went to a great Sikh, Bhai Luddha, in Lahore who was known to provide liberal help to any needy person. Bhai Luddha wanted to help the wretched musicians, but he was also aware of Guru Sahib's displeasure with anyone who wanted to plead their case. So, the great philanthropist, Bhai Luddha, blackened his own face and went to Guru Sahib in Amritsar to plead their case. When Guru Sahib saw Bhai Luddha with his face blackened, the always forgiving Guru hugged Bhai Luddha for his such a kind gesture and forgave the musicians too who had come to their senses and were deeply sorry for their unforgivable behaviour. Their respect for the kind and forgiving Guru Sahiban increased many-fold, and they realized that it was not the Guru who depended on them it was rather them whose life depended on the Guru.

They had come with a prepared composition in the form of a vaar in praise of all the five Guru Sahiban when they recited at the time of forgiveness. It has been enshrined in Guru Granth Sahib under "Ramkali ki Vaar: Rai Balwand tatha Sattay Doom Aakhee." On page 966, and is discussed next. As you will notice, most of the composition is dedicated to the Second, Third and the Fourth Guru Sahiban because when they wrote the Vaar, they had spent only a very little time with the Fifth Guru, and they had started very late with Guru Nanak Dev Ji.

Meaning: □ Whoever (Guru Angad Dev Ji) carried out the orders of (Guru Nanak Sahib) successfully became highly respected because obviously rice (which grows on lower lands) is worth much more than the useless grass-like weeds (which grow on higher lands). (In other words, humility is appreciated much more than baseless conceit).

Guru Angad Sahib is now playing a judge (of divinity) and mediates between the people with problems and Waheguru.

Waheguru does the same thing right away as promised to the Sikhs by Guru Angad Sahib.

Guru Angad Sahib's fame spread far and wide and Waheguru Himself made it everlasting. It seems as if Guru Nanak has Himself changed His body and occupied the throne with a large following.

Meaning: Guru Amar Dass enjoys the same respectable status as Guru Nanak Dev Ji and Guru Angad Dev Ji and wears the same charming looks, has the same throne (spiritual level) and same court (teachings for the followers). Unlike the mythical churning of the sea by the gods and the demons, Guru Amar Dass Sahib has churned the “Shabad” for which He used the deceitful mind as the churning rope, spiritual force as the support and the holy concentration as the churner. As a result of this churning He has produced Divine qualities for His followers and enlightened their minds. Guru Amar Dass is guarding the world by riding a horse made from the state of unwavering mind and which has the saddle of control on sensual pleasures. Guru Amar Dass Ji’s bow is made of high moral character and singing the praise of Waheguru is the arrow for the bow. In this corrupt and immoral world, where there was a complete darkness of ignorance, Guru Amar Dass has risen as the sun with bright rays (light).

He has seeded the field of noble qualities with the force of high moral values and has guarded it with the same. Your free public kitchen is always loaded with butter-oil, flour and sugar. Because Waheguru’s Shabad resides in Your heart all the time, You have realized the omnipresent Waheguru. You have finished the cycle of birth and death of those on whom You cast Your kind sight and granted them the certificate of approval. You are morally so strong that You are like a tall mountain which cannot be shaken by any strong or a whirl wind, oh Guru Amar Dass Ji! You know the state of everybody’s mind without being told. It seems that Waheguru Himself is born in the form of Guru Amar Dass Ji. What praise can I offer for You, oh my Guru! You have a beautiful soul and extremely wise.

I, Satta,

will accept any kind donation gladly that You choose to give, oh Satguru!

The Sikhs are amazed to observe the same royal canopy over Guru Amar Dass Ji as Guru Nanak Dev Ji. Guru Amar Dass Ji enjoys the same level of respect as Guru Angad Dev Ji and

Guru Nanak

Dev Ji, and

He

(same Divine Knowledge) and the same Sikhs as His followers. 6.

Moa = death;
Dooni Chaunee = many times;
Kramaat = supernatural even (power);
Dhoa = support;

Meaning: Waheguru Himself appeared in them, and the four Guru Sahib (from Guru Nanak Sahib to Guru Ram Dass Ji) lighted up the world during their respective life periods. Waheguru created the whole universe and is now supporting it just like a pillar that supports a building. To guide the world in the form of the Guru, Waheguru Himself is the wooden board on which to write the “Word” and he Himself is the pen as well as the author.

Even though the world is in the constant process of being born and dying, Waheguru Himself is always young, healthy and fresh.

Now Guru Arjun Sahib has occupied the Divine throne and His fame is spreading all around. From sunrise to sunset and from sunset to sunrise, He is enlightening the whole world.

However, the people who do not follow the Guru, and rather follow their own hearts, experience moral death.

But Guru Arjun Sahib’s fame is multiplying all the time.

Waheguru has sent Guru Arjun Dev Ji to this world as the True moral support.
